

Dear TIPP 2014 Organizers,

my student László Oláh plans to participate the TIPP 2014 conference, with an accepted poster presentation. I am writing this letter to support his application for financial support, namely waiving the registration fee for him.

I have followed the work of László Oláh since January 2010 as a supervisor at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, within the REGARD research group. The main field of our interest is to design gaseous particle detectors for high energy physics experiments as well as applied physics instrumentations.

László joined our research team as a BSc student in physics. He was involved in a starting project at our group where he was participating in the design phases of detector units as well as electronics. During our project László has shown a great deal of talent and initiative, and became key contributor to some of our publications. He now continues PhD studies within our group.

I strongly support him to be selected for financial support, which is otherwise not ensured neither from our own research budget nor the University allocations. However I firmly believe that the scientific community will profit from his actual participation, giving a young researcher visibility and chance to pursue discussions at one of the most prestigious events of his research field.

With my best regards,

Dezső Varga
